

Voicemail
+44 (0)7906
310070

Email miljenko.williams @gmail.com

AngelList
angel.co/mil-williams

Mil WILLIAMS

thinking [conceptually]

"There has never, to my mind, been a case in history of a technology where a potential use hasn't been taken advantage of."

Profile

BA Hons in Film and Literature
University of Warwick (1983)

University Master in Publishing
Universidad de Salamanca (2003)

MA in International Criminal Justice (2017)
Liverpool John Moores University

Professional proofreader with more than four years experience (high-level executive summaries in the technology industry)

English

Spanish (castellano)

Skills

Research of complex environments – ethnography/other qualitative approaches

Analysis of the results – philosophy as a method (see governmentality, M Foucault; veteranality, ET Murray)

Discussion and reporting – using wide-ranging strategies

Quick and accurate writer/editor

Engaged by:

Surveillance, technology and people

Ethnography and research

Writing, poetry, philosophy and photography

Culture, art, creativity and technology

Introduction

Good thinking leads to collaboration, community, understanding and mutual appreciation. This is what drives me to pursue an expertise in thinking [conceptually], in a world no longer short of content nor opinions.

I have formal publishing training and proofreading experience, which supports my ability to recognise structure through the power of thought. I enjoy working with people who would like to live in a better world, where common sense is often uncommon, and uncommon sense is undervalued. I am driven by the desire to share with, and encourage in, others this focus on originality and inspired thinking.

I have been writing and creating independently for decades. I possess in-depth knowledge of social media, networks, blogging, the web and the Internet, and was heavily involved in their use until recently.

My personal website can be found at miljenko.com.

Reference

Noel Cross, my programme leader for the MA in International Criminal Justice 2016-2017, which I studied and researched at Liverpool John Moores University during the academic year in question, has provided me with the following Angel List reference:

"Mil has been a dedicated and professional student throughout his time on the MA Criminal Justice programme, and his academic thinking is innovative and inspiring to others. I am pleased to have got to know him as his programme leader."

Recent activity

MA in INTERNATIONAL CRIMINAL JUSTICE, Liverpool John Moores University

September 2016 – September 2017: awarded Merit, October 2017

Dissertation entitled: "God 2.5: Challenging Original Sin".

On the subject of surveillance and tracking, understood in their widest senses. Drawing on academic sources: e.g. Bentham, Foucault, Mann, Murray, and Torrija; journalistic sources: e.g. Macaskill & Dance; security sources: e.g. Snowden; and many others. Auto-ethnographic research carried out in the art galleries of FACT Liverpool, over a period of approximately three months and two separate exhibitions. More than 50,000 words of observations and interviews. 19,995 words of dissertation, and six appendices, including research documentation, two associated assignments researched during the course of the MA, two blogposts written for FACT Liverpool, and other connected documents.

Dissertation without appendices now available at Academia.edu.